INTRODUCTION

In the activities of industrialized countries, consulting services in the field of economics and enterprise management are one of the most important factors in the effective functioning and development of enterprises. The complication of economic processes led to the formation of national and international markets for consulting services, which perform the function of spreading advanced technologies for solving complex economic problems. All these prerequisites lead to the need for future specialists in the field of international economic relations to study the theoretical, methodological and practical aspects of international consulting. Studying the discipline gives applicants the opportunity to gain experience in the use and provision of international consulting services.

The educational discipline "International consulting" belongs to the selective educational components of the cycle of professional training, which is studied by applicants who receive the educational degree "Bachelor", studying in the specialty 292 "International economic relations", OP "International business".

Independent work is an integral part of the process of effective assimilation of the discipline, aimed at the formation of theoretical knowledge and practical skills regarding the theory and practice of international consulting, the development of consulting services in the world, the construction of client networks and the implementation of consulting projects.

The goal of the educational discipline is to acquire theoretical knowledge on the following issues: theory and practice of international consulting, development of consulting services in the world, building client networks and implementation of consulting projects.

The main tasks of the academic discipline are as follows:

to form a clear idea and understanding of the essence of international consulting, its role in modern international economic relations;

providing students with knowledge about the basics of developing consulting services in the world, building client networks and implementing consulting projects.

The object of study of the academic discipline is the processes of consulting a wide range of issues in the field of international economic relations.

The subject of study of the academic discipline is the situations that arise in the process of functioning of enterprises on the international market and cause or can cause their inefficient activity.

Independent work should be organized in such a way that students have the opportunity to deeply learn the main provisions of the academic discipline, to develop the ability to master effective technical techniques and analytical methods of consulting services on international markets. Such work should demonstrate the student's ability to independently work with economic literature, apply the acquired theoretical knowledge in the performance of practical tasks, make generalizations and conclusions, provide suggestions for improving the use and provision of consulting services on international markets.

TEACHING METHODS

In the process of teaching an educational discipline, in order to acquire certain learning outcomes, to activate the educational process, it is envisaged to use such learning methods as:

Verbal (lecture (Topics 1 – 3, 5, 6, 8, 9), mini-lectures (Topics 4, 7), problematic lectures (Topics 6, 8)).

In person (demonstration (Topics 1 - 9)).

Practical (practical work (Topics 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 7, 9), seminars (Topics 1, 6, 8), seminars-discussions (Topic 2)).

FORMS AND METHODS OF ASSESSMENT

The University uses a 100-point cumulative system for assessing the learning outcomes of students.

Current control is carried out during lectures, practical, laboratory and seminar classes and is aimed at checking the level of readiness of the student to perform a specific job and is evaluated by the amount of points scored:

– for courses with a form of semester control as an exam: maximum amount is 60 points; minimum amount required is 35 points.

The final control includes current control and an exam.

Semester control is carried out in the form of a semester exam or grading.

The final grade in the course is determined:

– for disciplines with a form of exam, the final grade is the amount of all points received during the current control and the exam grade.

During the teaching of the course, the following control measures are used:

Current control: active work in pairs (12 points), survey (8 points), current control works (10 points), homework (7 points), creative task (6 points), essay writing (10 points), colloquium (7 points).

Semester control: Grading including Exam (40 points).

More detailed information on the assessment system is provided in technological card of the course.

The consulting company needs to provide advice on the development of a pricing policy on the markets of Poland and Romania.

Evaluation criteria

The final marks for the exam consist of the sum of the marks for the completion of all tasks, rounded to a whole number according to the rules of mathematics.

The algorithm for solving each task includes separate stages that differ in complexity, time-consumingness, and importance for solving the task. Therefore, individual tasks and stages of their solution are evaluated separately from each other as follows:

Task 1 (stereotype). (4 points)

Evaluation depends on the completeness of the answer.

Task 2 (stereotype). (10 points)

Evaluation depends on the completeness of the answer.

Task 3 (diagnostic). (26 points)

10 – the correct direction of providing consulting services;

10 – correctly developed recommendations for the client organization;

6 - correctly presented conclusions.
